

Quartz Mountain State Park

Immerse yourself in the stunning scenery and rich history of one of Oklahoma's original seven state parks.

Since it debuted in 1935, this ruggedly beautiful area along the banks of Lake Altus-Lugert has been an oasis of family fun. Visitors have relaxed on the park's sandy beaches, climbed its granite mountain faces and hiked its many trails.

Quartz Mountain is a true gem in the Oklahoma State Parks system. A multi-million-dollar renovation has revitalized the lodge into a first-class facility that holds its own with the surrounding beauty of the natural landscape.

Step inside the lodge, and you'll find a dramatic grand entry with high ceilings, exposed trusses and a towering stone fireplace. Murals celebrating the history of the area are displayed along the walls of the entrance. There's a newly refurbished indoor pool with garage doors that open to let in the breeze, and out back sits a courtyard with a fountain, natural landscaping and fire pits to keep you cozy as you gather with friends and family.

The lodge offers 94 rooms and 12 suites. The park also has 10 rustic cabins, including some that are pet-friendly, and many RV and tent camping sites.
